JEHOL FRONT SITUATION STILL OBSCURE

Chinese Claim That Threatened Collapse Has Been Stayed

BATTLE RAGING AT LINGYUAN

NO TOKYO ADVANCE CLAIMS IN LAST TWELVE HOURS

PEKING HOPES RISE

PEKING, MAR. 4.

WHILE THE ACTUAL SITUATION ON THE
JEHOL FRONTS REMAINS OBSCURE, THERE WAS A DISPOSITION TO A MORE HOPEFUL VIEW
IN PEKING TO-DAY.

Chinese despatches from the commanders in the field insist they are holding the Japanese at all points,
the tension noticeable at military headquarters on Thursday has eased, and the absence in the last twelve hours of any Tokyo claims to important advance, seems to suggest that the collapse threatened on Thursday has been stayed.

Pingchuan reports state that a snowstorm is raging filling some of the trenches to a depth of two feet.
This has aided the Chinese defenders, the snow blanket imposing a heavy handicap on the operations of the Japanese infantry. Attempts were made to occupy Taipingfang without success.

Jehol military headquarters at Chengtzu report that General
Tang Yu-lin, the Governor of the Province, has flown to the Chi-feng front to direct operations
there in co-operation with Sun Tien-yang, whose defection is again denied, while General Wang Fu-lin, the well known Manchuria leader, has been entrusted with charge of the operations in the Lingyuan region.

ARTILLERY DUEL

XIXth Army, has arrived on the teries of artillery and the first real artillery engagement of the Jehol war is reported to have commenced.

Over fifteen thousand troops are now on the march to the Chi-feng front to reinforce Sun Tienyang.

Strong defence lines are being constructed at Pingchuan in readiness for any emergency.
The Chinese will fall back on Pingchuan if the battle now raging in the Lingyuan region goes against them.—Special.

NEWSPAPER EDITOR
ARRESTED

Berlin, Mar. 3.
Victor Schiff, the foreign news
editor of the Völkischer Beobachter, has been arrested with twenty other persons, and charged with plotting against the government, for which the maximum penalty is death.

A thousand marks sterling has

CRIMINAL APPEAL

HONGKONG COURT TO BE ESTABLISHED

Hongkong is soon to have a court of Criminal Appeal, the draft of an amended Ordinance to effect this change in local criminal procedure being contained in the current issue of the Gazette.

Under the amending Ordinance,
the change will be made on the lines of the Criminal Appeal Act, 1907, in England, and the Criminal Appeal Ordinance, 1931. A feature of the new Section 10 is the provision for assigning counsel and solicitors as legal aids in capital
cases, cases reserved and appeal cases. It has been the practice to assign them in capital cases only. Provision is now made for some extension of the practice
so as to correspond with the provision made in England by section 10 of the Criminal Appeal Act, 1907, and in the Straits Settlements by section 12 of Ordinance
No. 5 of 1931.

RESERVED POINTS.

Section 3 of the amending Ordinance introduces new headings and sections into the principal Ordinance. Section 78, which provided for reservation of questions of law, is retained as it enables the judge to reserve a question either on his own motion
or at the request of either party.

The new sections 78A and 78B enact, generally, provisions of the Criminal Appeal Act, 1907, except that the Full Court is given power to direct a new trial and that the provision against separate judgments is derived from the Straits Settlements Ordinance.

Another material variation
from the model appears in the new section 78A where the words
"or upon the certificate of the judge who tried him" have been inserted at the suggestion of the judges who consider that the trial
judge should have the power to issue such a certificate.

The Court which will hear the criminal appeal will be the Full Court as defined and constituted
by the Full Court Ordinances which are being consolidated and amended, under another bill which has been approved by the Secretary of State.

SINGAPORE BASE URGENCY

MR. AMERY ON FAR EAST

DIE-HARD VIEW

London, Mar. 3.
A remarkable speech on the crisis in the Far East was delivered by Mr. L.C.M.S. Amery at Birmingham today.

When Japan has established herself in Manchuria and restored order, he declared, we should not delay any longer in recognising
her position there.

Then, he added, significantly,
we had better get
on with the equipment of the naval base
at Singapore
and put ourselves in the position to defend our rights
and to defend the League of Nations if we want to support it.

COVENANT REVISION.

Finally, he urged, Britain should insist upon the revision of the League Covenant by the elimination of the clauses containing penal sanctions.

Mr. Amery is well-known as a Tory of the "Die-Hard" school of

DESTRUCTION OF CONFIDENCE

FURTHER BANK
RESTRICTIONS

(Special to "Telegraph")

Washington, Mar. 3.

Mr. Franklin Roosevelt is assuming office as President to-morrow at one of the most critical periods in the history of the United States.

The banking crisis is growing hourly more serious, owing to the rapid destruction of confidence
throughout the country, panic-stricken depositors in State after State endeavouring to withdraw their funds to find that the authorities have been compelled to impose a moratorium.

Congress to-day approved the Bill giving the President and the Comptroller of Currency unlimited powers over the receipt and withdrawal of deposits in the District of Columbia.

The enforced bank holidays are stifling business all over the country and energetic efforts are necessary if thousands of banks
are to survive the crisis.—Reuter.

DISARMAMENT CRISIS

PREMIER AND SIR JOHN SIMON TO ATTEMPT RESCUE

London, Mar. 3.
The Disarmament Conference
has reached a critical pass and the Foreign Office has issued the following announcement:—"His Majesty's Government have had before them a full account from Captain Eden, Parliamentary
Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs, who has represented the United Kingdom at Geneva in recent weeks of the present position
at the Disarmament Conference.
"Deeply impressed with the necessity of giving all possible

ence to reach an early decision,
the Cabinet have requested the Prime Minister and the Secretary for Foreign Affairs, as heads of

TIDAL WAVE DISASTER

DEAD AND MISSING
OVER 2,400

IWATE HAVOC

800 KILLED IN
TWO VILLAGES

(Special to "Telegraph")

Tokyo, March 4.

The magnitude of the earthquake-tidal wave disaster along the north-east coast of Japan is immeasurably greater than first feared and than first reports seemed to suggest.

The disruption of communications is preventing the authorities
in Tokyo from forming an all-embracing estimate of the immense loss in life and property,
but there is grave reason to fear that the total fatalities will reach fully three thousand and possibly more.

It is admitted here that the figures already received, totalling over two thousand dead and missing, are incomplete.

IWATE TOLL.

The heaviest sufferer in the disaster was undoubtedly Iwate Prefecture where the town of Kumaishi was destroyed. The latest reports from Iwate announce that 1,380 are known dead, 696 are missing, and 276 are seriously injured.

MIYAGI LIST.

The next highest on the list is Miyagi Prefecture with 136 dead,
227 missing,
26 seriously injured.
Aomori and Hokkaido returns
account for a large part of the remaining casualties.
Two villages in Iwate Prefecture, Taro and Toni, were virtually wiped out of existence, with the dead numbering 477 in Taro
and 370 in Toni.

PROPERTY HAVOC.

Nearly five thousand houses
were completely destroyed, including over three thousand washed away. In addition over six thousand are inundated.
A snowstorm and blizzard are adding to the sufferings of the homeless refugees from the stricken areas.—Reuter.

OFFICIAL FIGURES.

Tokyo, Mar. 4, 8.20 a.m.
The official figures of the death
roll in the tidal wave disaster at midnight were:
1535 dead,
948 missing,
338 injured.

COLONY'S CREDIT BALANCE

IMPROVEMENT IN NOVEMBER

The Colony's credit balance at the end of November showed an improvement over the previous month, the figure being $12,297,- 053, compared with $11,882,875 at the end of October.

Revenue for the month totalled
$2,838,030, compared with $3,182,- 785 for the corresponding month
in 1931, while for the eleven months the respective figures were $29,824,874 and $30,182,600.

November's expenditure totalled
$2,421,851, against $2,038,174
in 1931, while for the eleven months the outgoings were $23,- 875,399, compared with $27,463,-

JAPANESE "MENACE"

ITALIANS AND TRADE
COMPETITION

WARNING REPORT

(Special to "Telegraph")

Rome, March 4.

Joint action by the countries of Europe to meet the "menace" of Japanese competition is urged in a Report to the Italian Chamber
on a Bill just passed, authorising the institution of a 48-hour week.

The Report declares that several important branches of Italy's export trade, including cotton, silk,
rayon and wool, are being progressively ousted by the "invincible" Japanese competition.

The friends of Japanese agents
have now reached the Mediterranean and they are even pushing Italian goods out of some of the Italian colonies.

SHANGHAI "DANGER."

Attention is also drawn in the report to the "growing danger of the industrialisation of some points of China." In Shanghai, for instance, modern Japanese and foreign factories are producing,
under labour conditions unap-proachable in Europe, their terrible competition is now extending to quality goods.—Reuter.

MONARCHY PLEA IN BAVARIA

A RESTORATION
MANIFESTO

Berlin, Mar. 4.

A Monarchist manifesto, published by the Bayerischer Kurier, the organ of the Bavarian People's Party, declares that in these last few weeks of political excitement,
a longing has been aroused, as never before for a King who would be a protector of the people's rights and the inviolability of the Bavarian State.

The manifesto says that this is not only proof of the respect felt
for the present heir to the throne,
Prince Rupprecht, but is also a sign that the people have realised the gravity of the hour.

The writer declares that the idea of a monarchy in Bavaria is not directed against the Reich, but the Restoration would involve wringing many Bavaria's State rights from the Reich.—Reuter.

AMERICA'S NEW PRESIDENT

INAUGURATION
TO-DAY

FAST THROGS IN CAPITAL

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic
Messages Ordinance, 1931. Received, March 4, 8.05 a.m.)

Washington, Mar. 3.

Over two hundred thousand people are expected to witness the inauguration of Mr. Franklin Roosevelt as President of the United States.

The capital is filled with vast thronging who are waiting on the hour of the ceremony and who are in a very happy mood despite the ominous state of the country.

What will be the last "Lame Duck" session of Congress in the history of the country is now working overtime in efforts to wind up the urgent legislation before the hour of adjournment,
noon to-morrow (Saturday).

TRAGEDY CASTS BLOOM.

Mr. Franklin Roosevelt, however, exchanged a courtesy call in Washington this afternoon, having spent the morning on a visit to the widow of the late Senator Walsh, who was to have been Attorney-General in Mr. Roosevelt's Cabinet.

Senator Walsh's death has cast
a gloomy touch over the inaugural proceedings, as the flag above the inaugural stand will be flown at half-mast and Mr. Roosevelt will not attend functions of a purely social nature. He will not even attend the Inaugural Ball.

NEW ATTORNEY GENERAL.

Mr. Homer S. Cummings has been appointed Attorney-General
in the place of Senator Walsh,
but the appointment is merely a temporary one. He will later proceed to Philippine Islands as Governor-General.—Reuter.

THE WORLD OF WOMEN

HOW TO REDUCE WITHOUT DIETING.

By Lilyan Malmstead

A unique system evolved by Lilyan Malmstead, Graduate of the Sargent School of Physical Education, and Instructor of Physiotherapy at the Children's Clinic, Schenectady, and at Mount Sinai Hospital, Cleveland, after fifteen years' intensive study, and research work at various hospitals, including the Great Ormond and King's College Hospital, London.

Just as life requires balance and proportion for correct living, so our bodies require proportion for health and beauty. Unfortunately, most of us are out of balance. We are either overweight, underweight, or excessively large in places. Common faults of disproportion are large hips and heavy busts. Remedy: Proper exercise.

Over-development of the bust may be brought about by incorrect exercise and may be reduced by proper exercise and the use of corrective wearing apparel.

All the bending forward exercises lengthen the muscles that hold up the chest wall and are, therefore, precisely the opposite of correct body mechanics.

Some girls develop more readily than others and consequently the girl with the development on her chest is more self-conscious than the girl who seems to put inches in her hips. She, therefore, begins to slump, allowing her shoulders to come forward and at

Hollywood.—White does more for a brunette than any colour can, in the opinion of Claudette Colbert, vivid little cinema star.

"Brunettes who want to be distinctive should realize that white is their forte," she asserts.

"No blonde, no matter how flaxen and lovely, can look as well as a brunette in a daring white gown."

In this beaded white evening gown, with draped shoulders that knot in front, Miss Colbert proves her point. The gown also illustrates the new spring mode for glittering elegance, for it has gleaming white beads in massed design all over its fitted, flowing loveliness.

There are two other high-styled features of this glamorous gown. The body, princess in cut, points upward in front to meet the deep V of the neck, and the bodice is draped into this high waistline. And there is a smart little train to the skirt.

Wears Jewelled Ensemble

As further glitter, Miss Colbert wears three sparkling bracelets on her left wrist, a square-cut diamond ring on her right third finger, and a beautiful necklace and earring ensemble of diamonds and dripping cabochon rubies.

All Hollywood—blondes, brunettes and redheads—seem to realize the enchantment that white holds. Mary Pickford chooses it nine times out of ten for evening. Joan Crawford, dancing at the Mayfair Club the other evening, wore a sleek white crepe with smart bows up the outside of its full, short sleeves, and a spray of fresh gardenias on the left shoulder.

Patricia Ellis, dining at the Biltmore supper room, wore a white chiffon dress, flaring from the knees and all polka dotted in black velvet. Loretta Young, at the Belasco Theatre, wore a rough white crepe with draped turban and a full-length mink coat.

At a party she gave in her own home, Carole Lombard wore a tailored evening gown of dull white crepe, with long sleeves. Helen Vinson wears the cutest little elbow-length cape of ermine, over white satin.

the same time weakening the muscles that would ordinarily help to keep the measurement normal. The exercise below is unusually beneficial.

Exercise for Bust

Stand with feet twelve inches apart.

(1) Raise arms, obliquely upward with wrists crossing. Hands over head.

(2) Bend the body very slightly backward, keeping head well up. At the same time drop arms full length to front of body. Now rotate wrists so that palms are outward and swing arms backward to a level with shoulders.

Keep eyes focussed on ceiling directly above head and keep reaching upward with the body.

(3) Return to (1), coming through the air with inside of palms facing each other. This avoids any strain that may occur in the shoulders.

Repeat as quickly as possible fifteen times.

Time—Thirty seconds.

SPOTLIGHT

BEGIN HERE TO-DAY

SHEILA SHAYNE, 18, whose parents were well-known vaudeville entertainers, is a dancer. After weeks out of a job she is hard to substitute for, DAISY GLEASON, another dancer, who has sprained her ankle. While rehearsing at JOE PAIR'S song shop Sheila meets DICK STANLEY and TREVOR LANE, both rich. Dick is much attracted to Sheila and tries to include her in the programme of entertainment at a party he is giving. Sheila declines to come but later accepts.

At the party she meets GORDON MANDRAKE, well known producer. She sees Dick frequently after that, Daisy returns to the show and Sheila again hunts a job. Then Mandrake offers her a part in a new play. Rehearsing begins at once. Sheila becomes friendly with JIM BLAINE, one of the principals in the play.

They go to Atlantic City for the try-out week. MARION RANDOLPH, the star, becomes jealous because of the praise Sheila receives from critics and therefore. Sheila is discharged. She is out of work for some time. Then through Trevor Lane's influence she secures a part in a show that is going on tour. When Dick learns the new job will take her out of town he begs Sheila to give it up.

CHAPTER XVII

Sheila and Dick drove to Greenwich Village and sought out an Italian restaurant where dinner was still being served. Parking the roadster near the entrance, they passed through the half deserted dining room into the September coolness of the garden in the rear.

Tables were set here and a few diners lingered. A girl in lavender muslin wearing a wide hat, intriguingly simple, faced a middle-aged escort. A group of newspaper men were nearby discussing a late book. Farther away sat two women dining together.

John, the proprietor, wandered from table to table, a muffer wrapped about his throat as was his custom in any except the hottest July temperature. John had been a singer.

He hurried to greet the newcomers and ushered them to a table. "Would Madame like the special salad?" he asked eagerly. Then he frowned at his mistake. The young lady was not "madame." She looked much too young.

"It's very good, Sheila," Dick assured her. "Want to try it? All right, John. Two dinners with the special salad."

"Would you like to see the chicken cooked?" Dick asked. Grateful for the interruption, Sheila rose and followed Dick into the kitchen which was well forward. She did not want, just then, to hear more of his pleas that she should give up her part in the road show and stay in New York.

It was a large, airy kitchen with a huge range and spit. Three white-capped chefs wandered about, apparently aimlessly yet actually with definite purpose. This one with a fork lifted the curling, coiling spaghetti and let it fall once more with a shake of his head. That one watched the chicken or split uncooked fowls with a sharp cleaver on a smoothly scrubbed pine board. Another stirred, sniffed and seasoned a reddish sauce, thick and fragrant.

John himself, at the farther end of the kitchen, was apparently in what Dick called a "mood." A stranger stood beside him and gazed negligently and impatiently on some snapshots and cabinet photographs which John seemed bent on displaying.

The stranger shook his head. "I can't help it. I can't do a thing about it. Those are the orders! Pay up or get out." "But my grandmother! My mother in Italy! They will starve if I close! You are wrong. I never sell one drop in this place!"

The restaurant keeper flung down the family portraits on a bare table. They were instantly swept aside to make room for a huge soup kettle. Bending, with tears gathering afresh, John collected the photographs together and held them to his breast.

"Is he in trouble?" asked Sheila hesitantly. Dick frowned. "Don't know. If he's been selling booze he is. That's certain. But I'm sure he pays his rent. Trevor owns this block, you know. I'll see what I can do."

While Dick proffered his assistance Sheila returned to the table in the garden.

At the next table, vacant when she and Dick had arrived, a tall, blonde young man was sitting. He was smoking thoughtfully. Presently a waiter, napkin on arm, hurried to the young man's side, bearing a steaming plate of soup.

Suddenly the stranger's eyes met Sheila's and he smiled. It was a frank smile, ingenious and winning. There was nothing flirtatious about it. Sheila smiled back.

"Aren't you Miss Shayne?" the man asked in a low tone. Without waiting for an answer, he nodded slowly. "Yes, of course you are! I've seen you on the stage. I saw you at Atlantic City and I wanted to see you here. Where have you been?"

"You mean you saw me in 'When Lights Are Low'?" He nodded.

Having secured another part, Sheila didn't mind in the least admitting what had happened. Others knew it now anyhow.

"I lost my job in that show in Atlantic City," she said. "I guess I wasn't much of a success." "But you were! You were excellent! I suppose it was Marion—yes, of course, that was it! Marion doesn't like competition. Do you have a job now?"

Sheila nodded. "I'm going on the road."

"Not really? Why, you can be a Broadway star if you stay here. On the road!"

"I have to eat." "Don't we all? Come and eat with me any time. But meanwhile don't go on the road. Are you married?"

Sheila gave a start. "Goodness, no!"

The man laughed. "Well, you will be. I've seen it so many times. Girls who have talent, looks, personality, spoil it all by running off and getting married. I'll bet you're engaged this minute."

"No!" Sheila's voice rang out quickly. "Well, you will be. Red checked curtains in your kitchen windows, a pot of geraniums on the sill, doll carriages around the place to stumble over—"

"How did you know?" Sheila began, her cheeks burning.

"How did I know? I didn't until a minute ago. You look just like that kind of girl. Well—his tone lowered, "I'll be seeing you."

His glance dropped. Looking up, Sheila saw Dick coming along the garden walk.

"It seems John was in a jam," Dick admitted, seating himself. "Hadn't paid his rent. I got Trevor on the wire and he gave him another week to raise it."

The waiter brought the first course, a plate carefully mosaicked with shiny red peppers, silver fish, cool green onion tops and radishes.

"When we're married—" Dick began. "We're not going to be married," Sheila interrupted.

"No? How much do you want to stake on it?"

"All I have!" She shook the contents of her little purse on the tablecloth. A key. A postage stamp. Four pennies and a folded bill.

"Say! Is that all you have? Forgive me but—well, I know you are only rehearsing. Listen—"

"I am listening." Arms on the table, Sheila framed her cheeks with two soft hands and smiled across at him provokingly. "I know it all by heart. Listen, girlie, if that's all you have let me help you. There are plenty of people waiting around to grab a nice little girl like you when she's out of work and hasn't any money. Let me stake you. I'm not like the others!"

"I hope I am," Dick said slowly, "if that's the case."

"Oh, it isn't. I have plenty of money."

"Sure?" "Quite sure. Do you think if I were actually broke I'd have let you see that I had so little in my purse? Besides, it isn't a little. That bill is a 10."

"A fortune!" gasped Dick in mock agreement. "Look here, Sheila, please give up this road job. Marry me and forget the stage."

They discussed the pros and cons of marriage throughout the rest of the dinner. But Sheila had made up her mind. She would not marry him and live in the city or in a suburb. She wanted a home in the country. A country-bred husband. She even mentioned red geraniums and was surprised and gratified because Dick did not laugh.

"But we can have all that, sweetheart," he said earnestly. "No, we can't. You were born to a different life. You wouldn't like it."

And with a promise to write him frequently Dick had to be content.

It's always Picture-taking Time

with the new EASTMAN cameras
...and Kodak VERICHROME Film

HOLIDAYS, visits, trips—the new car, the family pet, the children's play... there's always a picture you'll want for your permanent snapshot record... a record that will be invaluable in years to come.

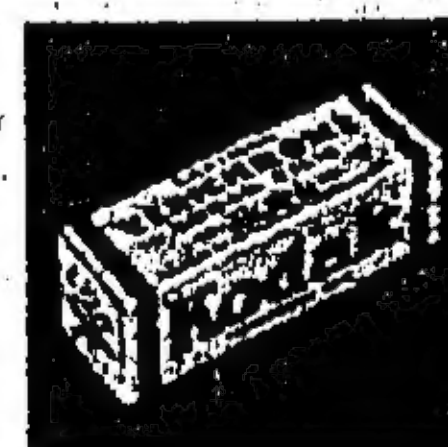

You can keep that record so inexpensively—and so easily with a Kodak Brownie, or Hawk-Eye... each comes in a wide choice of colors at a wide range of prices.

And with the new Kodak

Verichrome Film you can get better pictures than you ever could before... on dark days or fine... even in the rain. For Verichrome "sees" faster... and the det... this new film gets will amaze you.

Ask your Kodak dealer for Verichrome, in the yellow box with the checkered stripe. And he will gladly show you his assortment of Eastman cameras. Or mail the coupon at the right for a free descriptive booklet.

No matter how simple and inexpensive the camera you use, Verichrome means better pictures. Indeed, the greater the need for the speed that Verichrome offers.

SATURDAY, MARCH 4, 1933.

AMERICA'S NEW GOVERNMENT

Mr. Franklin D. Roosevelt, only the third Democrat since 1856 to be elected President of the United States, is to be installed in office to-day. He assumes his high position at a moment when depression still hangs heavily over America, aggravated as it now is by the banking crisis. In the circumstances, his task is not an enviable one. Obviously, if the new Administration is to escape the unpopularity of the old, it must be through some improvement in the world situation. The question naturally suggests itself whether Mr. Roosevelt can make good where Mr. Hoover failed. The critical aspects of American policy are all concerned with finance—war debts, tariffs, foreign investments, and bimetallism. On the first of these, there is not likely to be any marked change recorded. Mr. Roosevelt owed his nomination largely to the support of Mr. Hearst, and the Hearst-papers have been violent in their opposition to war debt revision, or even to serious downward revision. The new President may be able to win popular support for a reduction of the British debt, since there is a growing feeling that the terms made with Britain are unfairly onerous, compared with those made with other debtor nations. But he will need to be careful as to how far he goes in this direction, inasmuch as the other debtors would naturally seize the opportunity to ask for revision also. On the tariff question, the Democrats are said to be planning downward revision, in the hope of reciprocal agreements with other countries which will help to revive foreign trade. But if past history is to be taken as a guide, it is quite possible that these plans may not be realised. The Democratic Party, since the Civil War, has never been united in favour of tariff reduction, as both Cleveland and Woodrow Wilson found when they attempted to persuade Democratic Congresses to lower the tariff. One possible contribution to world financial revival is a return to bimetallism. Mr. Roosevelt is known to favour this; it is in line with the historic tendency of his party, and it is a popular programme in the rural South and among the remaining Bryan Democrats of the West. At the World Economic Conference, America may urge the remonetisation of silver, and since bimetallism provides a fairly safe form of inflation, it offers at least one of the more arguable methods of pulling the world out of the present slump. The Roosevelt policy in regard to the Far Eastern crisis has not yet been disclosed, but there, again, no marked change is likely to be registered. The new incumbent of the White House will take office with the good wishes not only of his own people, but of the whole world. A tremendous task awaits him. If he can make some real impression on the big problems of his time, his name will long be remembered in the history of the United States.

International Language

The latest effort to provide mankind with a universal language departs from the method of its predecessors in that it does not attempt to add one more to the number of languages already spoken. There are said to be about 1500 languages, not counting the Volapuk invented in 1879 by Johann Martin Schleyer, or Esperanto, invented by the Russian Zamenhof eight years later. The Russian originator, when he signed his first printed exposition "Dr. Esperanto," gave that name to what seemed the most promising. There are now those in different lands who if they met could exchange thought in Esperanto; but they are so few that they are unlikely to meet. The universal language, with which anybody could conveniently supplement his native tongue, was still unprovided. Traffic in Chinese ports, to be sure, long ago invented Pidgin English, which has continued useful within its limits, but is rather too fantastic, as well as too limited, to invite adoption as a universal form of speech. The latest effort, Basic English, seems more promising in that it takes its words from the language now most widely spoken and has compiled a vocabulary of 850 words, which, with the rules governing their use, can be mastered by the earnest student in a short time. Dr. Vizetelly, the lexicographer, has estimated the number of reputable words in the English language at about 700,000. For the past ten years Mr. C. K. Ogden, sponsor of Basic English, and his assistants in the Orthological Institute of Cambridge, have been picking out the smallest number of words with which, when two strong men stand face to face, though they come from the ends of the earth, they could carry on an easy and intelligible conversation. The astonishing thing, as Basic English now comes to public knowledge, is that this can actually be done with 850 words, and that the two strong men could chat companionably about any subject that occurred to them. Such, it appears, is the comprehensiveness of his small vocabulary that a savant could address savants in Basic English, or an author could write a novel.

Industry's Future

Even while the dismal giant of technocracy has been striding the American stage, in Canada another group, less conspicuous, has been making a deeper stir and a much more hopeful one. Organised last August, the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation of Canada is rapidly spreading throughout the country. In contradistinction to the technocrats, the Federation seems to be advancing on the assumption that man is an intelligent being and can work out his own economic salvation without discarding freedom or the humanities. While the technocrat is apparently to large extent concerned with the negatives of unemployment, lack and social disorder, the co-operator sees about him abounding plenty, vast stretches of untouched work waiting to be done. Having seen this, the co-operator has set himself the task of building up a system that will insure to every consumer a share of the bounty that exists and a portion of the work that must be done. Co-operation, he tells his fellow men, will solve all social and economic problems. The movement aims at an early nationalisation of banking, currency and credit as a first step toward a full employment and exchange of goods and services. It is pointing to the constructive results of co-operation throughout Europe as but a hint of what is possible when co-operation is more widely known and applied.

THE ETHICS OF MONEY

By E. L. ALLEN

We usually regard our private incomes and what we do with them as peculiarly our own concern and rather resent the intrusion of moral considerations. All the same, I am sure that an increasing number of people are becoming exercised to-day on the matter. Is there nothing that you and I can do here and now towards helping the world through its present distresses? I am going to throw out one or two suggestions as to lines of action which we might well adopt and by adopting which we could play our part, small as it must of necessity be, towards world-recovery.

In the first place, I am not at all sure that thrift can occupy for us the place on the list of virtues which it held for our fathers. Time was when capital was needed for industrial expansion and capital could then only be obtained by saving. The successful business man would relate with pride how as a boy he used to walk to work instead of going by tram and how as a family man he limited the number of potatoes on the dinner table, till he seemed to imply that we could all have become millionaires if we had only been willing to be as abstemious!

A SURFEIT OF SAVING.

But it is more than probable that all the needs of industry for fresh capital can be met nowadays simply by setting aside a proportion of its profits or by the investments which the rich are only too glad to make in order to find a use for their surplus income. It looks indeed as though we are suffering at the present time from a surfeit of saving and a shortage of expenditure. Of course, the obligation remains to provide sufficient to prevent one from being a burden on one's friends in old age, sickness, or unemployment. But it may be seriously questioned whether we have a right to save beyond that point. Our warehouses are choking with goods and there is dire need for people to come forward with money to buy them. In spite of so much that is being said, economy for economy's sake is not a virtue but a menace. It only serves to make matters worse, for my refusal to buy is in effect a refusal to give men work. Not thrift but wisely-regulated expenditure is the ideal.

But how are we to regulate our expenditure? For one thing, it is better to buy a hand-made than a machine-made article. If the result of my expenditure over a given period is that I have put a machine out of work and put a man in, I have rendered a solid and permanent service. Let us purchase where most money goes in wages. That is why, for example, it is better apart from other considerations, to lay one's money out on furniture than on whisky. So much more is paid out in wages in the one industry than in the other.

INVESTMENTS.

But as regards what one does save, where is one to invest it? We should do well to develop more of a conscience in this respect. In these days of investment trusts and joint-stock companies and dividends coming in through the post without the ordinary man knowing much about how they have been earned, it is perhaps more difficult to get information than to act on it. But the man who refuses to direct his power to invest and so to promote industry into any channels except those which he has reason to believe will be socially beneficial is rendering a real service. And for those who want to go farther even than that, opportunities are not wanting. There are a number of businesses and societies in England to-day which are not run on a profit-making basis but to provide work for the unemployed or to help solving the housing problem in our big cities. They can offer only 3 or 4 per cent at most but the satisfaction one gets out of knowing that one's savings are really doing some direct good in the world is worth a great deal. Many municipal loans come under the same head, they go into public health, housing, education, etc., and to invest in them is a form of service.

Then if there is one thing at the present time against which we should set our faces, it is surely this whole business of making money by manipulating money, whether in the form of gambling on the exchanges or share-speculation.

Anybody who went through the boom period in the U.S.A. or the milder epidemic in England which preceded the Hattri crash knows that this sort of thing does not merely give the machinery of industry a nasty jar, its disastrous results seriously undermine the whole business world, so that an orgy of optimism is followed by a paralysing depression. What money I have is my share in the purchasing power of the community, it has come to me more because I am a member of a society that has earned it than because I have earned it myself, and I have no right to use it except under a sense of responsibility.

FATHER JELICOE'S PUBLIC-HOUSE

Recently I paid a visit to "The Anchor," the famous public-house in Somers' Town, London, run by Father Jellicoe of the Magdalen College Mission.

"The Anchor" is situated in a dreary slum street, and I was pleasantly surprised when I pushed open the swing door and stepped out of the wet and cold into the warm, well-lighted saloon bar.

No one took any notice of me, so I was able to take stock of my surroundings. Everything was bright and shining. There was the usual bar, very spick and span, with rows of clean glasses, and plates of tempting sandwiches and buns. Colourful pictures (not advertisements of somebody's beer) were hung around the walls; a cheerful fire blazed cosily; the oak mantelpiece was adorned with large vases of golden chrysanthemums and a fine statue of St. George.

Then I peeped into the public bar, which was larger and more crowded. I was told that beer costs a halfpenny a pint less in the public bar, and there are facilities for playing dominoes, draughts, etc., which are greatly appreciated. Yet three years ago, when "The Anchor" was bought by the Magdalen College Mission, it was considered one of the worst public-houses in London, and was regarded by the police with grave suspicion.

"That makes too many words. Can't you leave out the 'Never mind if you can't spare that much?'"

BULLS AND INNERS

If the Horticultural Society's Show had only been held the day after one of these boxing tournaments, some fine specimens of cauliflowerers might have been on view.

Maybe one of the reasons there is no Cornish Society in Hongkong is the embarrassment which might be caused if an odd pirate or two wanted to join up.

Some Hongkong mothers and their daughters irritable at night, says a reader. Others can't find them at all until the early morning.

We hear of a Peak lady who objects to her cold being called a common one.

She was only a baker's daughter, but she wore her hair in a bun.

A newcomer wants to know what we would do if we found a nine-inch centipede inside the mosquito net. About fifteen miles an hour.

A young lad recently followed his father miles round the Fanning golf course. It is presumed that he was anxious to get to know him.

The Australians will only concede that England won the bashes.

Stated that there is still a fortune awaiting the inventor of a perfect non-refillable bottle. Edward Kelly considers a greater fortune awaits the inventor of a non-emptiable one.

Inhabitants of the world are getting shorter, says a scientist. Edward Kelly's bank-book proves that.

An Armistice has been declared until the next Test series.

Britain has instituted an arms embargo, but thank Heaven we're not prudish in Hongkong.

She was only a tai-pan's daughter, but how the lads liked to Peak!

Three hangmen in succession in Warsaw have been dismissed for drunkenness. Naturally, a hangman works better if allowed an occasional drop.

Sixty ton whale passes through Hongkong. Where were our local anglers?

No jokes are left to write about. We've drained the moment dry. Dance-halls and chits have petered out. And no more grins supply. No pals tell funny tales to-day. No joker does appear. Police Court skies are dull and grey. With humour scarce as beer. As scarce as beer? Well no. Not quite. For what's this in the ads? Free samples can be had to-day. Oh! What a time to-night!

"Natural Lines Return to Favour—Waistline Only Hinted" reads a headline. Some appear to be pretty broad hints.

There is no truth in the rumour that the serious shortage of white roses compelled the Yorkshiremen's Society to use a bowl of red ones at last night's function.

Some people complain that there are too many obstacles in the way of University education. That's the worst of adversity!

"Indignant"—Do not worry. "Grayblocks" does not refer to some human headpieces.

There is no truth in the rumour that during the band concert at the Flower Show, a gentleman in the Colonial Secretariat actually achieved the impossible by sleeping through a trombone.

We hate to say it, but some of the exhibitors at the Horticultural Show did know their on... parsnips!

We liked the table decorations, especially the motif depicting picotees defending their young.

The explanation of that beautiful cabbage lying outside the lower Peak Tram Station, is, we are reliably informed, that a Peak exhibitor lost his head.

THE charm of sound, white, natural teeth is lost to her.

In her childhood she disliked the hard foods that are so good for the teeth, and her parents indulged her.

Don't make the same mistake with your children. When the first, tiny tooth is due give your baby 'Ovaltine Rusks'
to bite and chew. They help the teeth to come easily through the gums and keep them strong and healthy.

Right through childhood 'Ovaltine' Rusks will give the biting exercise so essential to the correct formation of the mouth and the health of those first teeth upon which depend
the correct spacing and soundness of those that follow.

'Ovaltine' Rusks are made from the purest wheaten flour

In States that have imposed limitations on the withdrawal of deposits.

The number of these States has leaped in the last twenty-four hours to thirty, out of a total of forty-eight, and others are expected to follow suit.

Georgia and New Mexico are the latest participants in the restrictive measures upon the withdrawal of bank deposits.

The Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago has raised the re-discount rate to three and a half per cent.—Reuter.

STOCK SCAMBLE.

New York, Mar. 3. The Wall Street Journal reports that the stock market opened at a moderate turnover. A mad scramble to cover by shorts forced prices up several points. There was active trading and tickers were 2 minutes behind. The movement spread also to the Curb. U.S. Bonds sagged to the lowest points for the year. Call money was renewed 3 1/2%. Later the market turned bullish with a vengeance, stocks going up as much as 6 points. There was a sterling rush to buy Wheat 2 1/2 cts, higher in Chicago. During the first hours of trading all grains joined the upward rush. Provisions gained as much as 20 points.

The frantic short covering produced one of the most bullish markets in recent months, prices holding most gains at the close. Tickers were once 4 minutes late. Sales from 10.30 a.m. to noon totaled 700,000 shares. Call money rose to 4%, the highest since December 29, 1930. The Curb Exchange followed the Stock Exchange, and bonds including U.S. Bonds firmed up later.

COMMODITIES CLIMB.

Due to stock influence, Wheat, Sugar, Cotton, Silver and other commodities climbed substantially.

It is reported that shorts were frightened because of expected restrictions in short trading which, however, will not materialize, the Stock Exchange saying that free trading must continue. The Chicago Federal Reserve put up the re-discount rate to 3 1/2%.

The Weekly Report of the Federal Reserve Board showed that money circulation rose from $732,000,000 to the high record of $6,729,000,000. $116,000,000 lost through export or earmarking foreign account. Frightened citizens hoarded another $110,000,000. Federal Reserve put $585,000,000 in credit into banking structure.

ANOTHER STATE.

It is reported that Federal Reserve were buying bills from members of banks and dealers at 3 1/4% against 2% yesterday. New York clearinghouse announced that effective Monday interbank rates would be increased from 3/4% to 1% from recent levels. Georgia moratorium effective until Monday. North Carolina authorized restrictions where necessary, making 31 States operating forced optional restrictions.

Mr. Roosevelt denied reports that he proposed statement on finances to-day. Mr. Gore introduced bill giving Roosevelt sweeping power to secure deposits through R. F. C. and other Government agencies. A Bill was urged for postal savings banks to accept checking accounts to provide currency business.

S.P.C.A. CARNIVAL

BRILLIANT FUNCTION AT PENINSULA HOTEL

The carnival spirit reigned supreme at the Peninsula Hotel last evening when a large gathering congregated in the Roof Garden for the annual carnival ball of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

It was the fifth annual function of the Society.

Mr. J. Russell, President, introducing Lady Ho Tung said:

This enjoyable function is not the occasion for making a speech but, before calling upon Lady Ho Tung to present the prizes, I would like to take the opportunity of thanking you all for your support, and to say how much the Society is indebted to those who have helped by the sale of tickets and propaganda, enabling us to maintain this our Carnival Ball. Particularly am I grateful to the Hon. Secretary and Hon. Treasurer for the great amount of work they have done in connection with the organizing of this evening's event.

Our Society calls for the sympathetic support of all people, particularly as the methods of handling cattle in the Colony are far from satisfactory. You may not have noticed the prosecution recently against junk masters for dumping pigs into the water, and prodding and pulling them to the shore. The condition of almost all birds shops also is horrible, therefore, you must wake up and take an interest in the welfare of animals.

It is your Society's intention to intensify its efforts to reduce the cruelty at present existing, and to obtain for animals better conditions. Some may say what about the human element? All I would say in answer to that question is be up and doing, let social service become a part of your life then both human and animal life will be benefited.

Prizewinners.

Lady Ho Tung presented prizes to the following:

Miss Kathleen Fisher, as "Odol," Miss Isabel Pestonji as "A Gentleman."

Mr. A. Dinneen as "A Lady," Mr. B. C. Field as "A Pirate."

Replying on behalf of Lady Ho Tung, Sir Shou-son Chow, one of the oldest members of the Society, regretted that so few had come in fancy dress and hoped that next year there would be an increase. The judges were Mrs. C. W. Jeffries, Mrs. F. H. Loseby, Mrs. Baker and Mr. D. Davies.

Among those present were parties of Sir Robert Ho Tung, Sir Shou-son Chow and Lady Pollock.

LOCAL ACTIVITIES OF SIR PATRICK MANSON

Particular reference to the activities of Sir Patrick Manson, the father of tropical medicine, in connection with the Hongkong Medical School was made by Professor W. I. Gerrard, O.B.E., M.D., M.R.C.P., D.P.H., in a highly interesting and instructive address given at the first general meeting of the Hongkong University Medical Society in the Union Assembly last night.

Mr. Lim Gim-khong, Chairman, presided, and was supported by the Hon. Secretary, Mr. Ong Eue-hui. Among those present were Prof. W. Brown, Surg.-Lieut. C.D. de Labilliere, Dr. R. B. Jackson, Prof. L. J. Davies, Mr. C.E.R. Clarabut and several local medical men.

THE FIGHTING IN JEHOI

JAPANESE TRICKED INTO PASS

Peking, Mar. 3.

Although Japanese reports also positively claim that Lingyuan has been taken and Pinghuang entered. Chinese despatches to-night insist that Lingyuan has not yet been forced and claim that near fighting is proceeding in the region of Lingyuan and Yehpohsou. Both sides are attempting to sever the other's line of communications with further bombing of the road between Lingyuan and Pinghuang by Japanese planes.

According to Chinese reports, the Chinese lost 1,500 killed in yesterday's fighting, with further heavy casualties to-day.—Our Special Correspondent.

Events Moving Rapidly.

Peking, Mar. 3. Reuter's special correspondent reports from Jehol that before proceeding to the front, General Tang Yu-lin, admitted that Lingyuan was surrounded on all sides by the Japanese troops and the position there was desperate. He said he wanted the world to know that he would fight to the finish. He declared that Manchukuo was hated there and would be resisted. He also asserted that the Japanese had been repelled from Chih-feng.

General Tang Yu-lin looks worn and tired.—Reuter.

Prices Rising.

Peking, Mar. 3. With Lingyuan and other places lost and Luyuan surrounded, events appear to be moving rapidly in Jehol province. General Chang Hsueh-liang's troops here have created the best impression among the people. They behave well and pay for their food.

Prices are rising rapidly due to war conditions. Petrol is now $16 a case. Cars here loaded with food for the front are unable to leave due to shortage of petrol.—Reuter.

Chinese Casualties.

Peking, Mar. 3. The Chinese casualties in yesterday's fighting at Jehol are placed at 1,500 killed, and about 3,000 wounded.—Reuter.

Wily Ambuscade

Peking, Mar. 3. Bizarre events at Chih-feng are quoted in Chinese official circles here to-night as clearing up the mystery of Sun Tien-ying's supposed defection. According to the account given by a Tientsin Japanese newspaper, when the Japanese forces from Kailu were approaching the pass, one of Sun Tien-ying's subordinates, a brigade general named Shih Wen-hua, came forward expressing readiness to submit and inviting them to occupy the defences.

With this assurance, the Japanese vanguard entered the pass. Shih Wen-hua thereupon opened fire and a fierce engagement resulted in which Chinese reports assert, the Japanese cavalry suffered heavy losses.

Japanese reports state positively that Chih-feng has been occupied, but the Chinese declare fighting was still in progress this afternoon, extending as far as Fanghsien, 25 miles away.

While Shih Wen-hua's stratagem was being enacted, Sun Tien-ying was unable to communicate with Peking owing to the telegraph wires being blown down by a blinding snowstorm. Wireless was ineffective on account of a heavy bombardment. Later Sun Tien-ying got in touch with headquarters here, and attested his loyalty.—Our Special Correspondent.

Nineteenth Route Army. Marshal Chang Hsueh-liang has appointed General Oung Chao-yeen, famous defender of the Woosung Forts during the Shanghai war to reorganise the Command of one division of the Artillery for the defence of Jehol.

General Oung is already in the Province and has started his duties, being assisted by W. Kojen, also of the Nineteenth Route Army.

General Tang Yu-lin wires from Jehol denying Japanese rumours that he has defected and states that he is fighting to the last and is going towards Chih-feng to-day.—Reuter.

Secret Pact Denied

Nanking, Mar. 3. A report that China and Japan have reached a secret understanding in regard to Jehol has evoked a very strong denial from a Chinese Government spokesman, who branded the report "a most outrageous lie."—Reuter.

To Reject Demand

Nanking, Mar. 3. The Government has instructed Yu Hsueh-chung to reject the Japanese demand for the withdrawal of the Chinese forces from Tientsin.—Reuter.

Customs Dispute

Tientsin, Mar. 2. The Commissioners of Customs at Chinwangtao has lodged a protest with the Japanese Consul-General in Tientsin against the action of the Japanese merchants at Shanhaikuan who since February 4 refused to comply with the Chinese Customs formalities despite the fact that the Customs station at Shanhaikuan being within the Great Wall is beyond question, Chinese territory, while the Customs revenue collected there is like that of the open ports which China has reserved for service of international loans and indemnities, in which Japan herself is a participant. The action of the Japanese merchants, the Commissioners pointed out, constitutes, therefore, a grave breach of treaty stipulation and is a menace to the prestige and integrity of the Customs with which many foreign interests are associated.—Reuter.

NEW CONCEPTION OF TENNIS

DAVIS CUP TEAM
ENTHRALS

BRILLIANT NUNOI

CREAM OF JAPANESE TENNIS AT HONGKONG CRICKET CLUB

(By "Veritas")

A thousand tennis fans crowded the stand court at the Hongkong Cricket Club yesterday afternoon, and for two hours were held spellbound and fascinated by one of the most spectacular displays of tennis they have ever been privileged to watch.

They were there to study and revel
in an exhibition by Jiro Satoh, H.
Nunoi and E. Ito, the cream of Japanese tennis, and hailed as the most powerful combination ever sent from Japan to compete in the Davis Cup,
and it is inconceivable that any one of them left the court disappointed.

NEW CONCEPTION.

We in Hongkong, who are somewhat out of touch with the rapid development of the modern game of tennis, were afforded a new conception of the high degree of artistry the game has now reached thanks largely to its ever-growing international characteristics. We were shown the need for perfection in touch, the necessity for complete physical fitness,
and the methods used to obtain the greatest possible maximum of speed
and accuracy with the minimum amount of physical expenditure.

We had glimpses of Wimbledon
centre-court tennis, which means tennis at its very best.

REMARKABLE DEVELOPMENT.

Those who had never seen either Satoh or Nunoi in action before must have marvelled that such young players could attain the high standard they displayed, but others who remember their practices at the K.C.C., and the Club in 1931 and last year, must have equally marvelled at the phenomenally rapid development of the players during those two years.

Nunoi has in that interval, leapt
from a young student of promise to the forefront of the world's leading exponents of tennis. Given eight months in Europe, and we shall see him holding his own against Vines, Cochet, Borotra, Austin, Perry and Crawford.

Satoh, who already has victories against several of these players to his credit, need only add another
over Nunoi yesterday; his ground strokes were more consistent. Those deep drives on both hands which found the baseline and corners with unerring accuracy paved the way for most of his points.

THE KILL.

Yet Nunoi revealed the greater amazing shots. Nunoi's service, his volleying and more particularly his smashing, were definitely superior to those of his compatriot.

His overhead work was probably the finest ever seen in Hongkong. It celled that of the Frenchmen in 1929. No matter from what part of the court, he killed to make a return impossible.

Satoh was more subtle, backing up
a glittering array of ground strokes,
with glorious drop and drag volleys
which called for perfect timing and absolute control.

NO SPIN STROKES.

Probably the most prominent feature of the players was their total disregard of chop and spin strokes.
They met the ball flat racket, with an occasional suspicion of top spin.
Students of the game must also have found much to interest them in their footwork, the use of their body (which was brought into full use for ground strokes and volleying), and their intricate schemes for manoeuvering for position.

Ito, the youngest member of the party, who is making his debut in international tennis, is another of those young talented players whom Japan appears to be turning out year by year with the regularity
of a clock.

Ito has strokes, confidence and unbounded enthusiasm. He also has a touch of genius and is bound to progress. He is keen on singles, and is, Satoh informed me, primarily a singles player. In view of this, and the fact that yesterday was his first game on grass, Hongkong did not see him at his best as he figured in only one doubles match.

Nevertheless in that half an hour
he gave a very fine exhibition, revealing in close quarter encounters with Nunoi, and not always coming off the worst. His volleying was clean and decisive and his smashing
almost comparable to Nunoi's.

At the moment his service is weak
and his ground strokes inconsistent.

THE LOCALS.

On the whole the local players,
S. A. and H. D. Rumjahn, E. C.
Fincher and L. Goldman, performed creditably with and against the visitors.

The Rumjahn found the pace too hot when they opposed Satoh and Nunoi in the last doubles of the day, although H. D., met the Japanese halfway in their volleying campaigns,
and once or twice came out on top.

The deadly smashing of Nunoi
and the clever angle volleys of Satoh left the local champions
paralysed.

As S. A. Rumjahn said to me afterwards "Usually we concentrate on where we are going to put the ball, but to day we were glad to be able to reach it and make a return."

Goldman drove well in partnership with Nunoi against Ito and Fincher and his game seemed to improve with the occasion. Ito took a lot of work away from Fincher, who was able to give but passing glimpses of his form.

The three matches were admirably
timed by Messrs. G. W. Sewell, H. J. Armstrong and H. Packer.

LADIES' GOLF

Medal Competition Won by Mrs. Fischer After Tie.

Miss V. M. Thomas qualified for the Captain's Cup for February with a score of 85-28-67.

The Medal Competition held on February 25 over the New Course was won by Mrs. Fischer (101-36-73), who had the best score over the last nine holes, after a tie with Mrs.
Redmond (91-18-73) and Mrs.
Tottenham (90-17-73). Other scores were:—Mrs. Lambert 83-9-74, Mrs. Wren 91-17-74, Miss Goussens, 96-22-74.

The Eclectic Competition run during January and February was won by Mrs. Tottenham, 70-4-85-4.
Other scores were:—Mrs. Wren
73-4-83-4; Mrs. Lambert
72-2-82-4; Mrs. Lissaman
76-5-70-4.

Mrs. Mackenzie and Mrs. Wild won the prize kindly presented by Mrs. Holmes for Shanghai tournaments with a score of 80-22-87.

A Running Medal Pool will be held over the Old Course during March.
Any number of cards may be taken out at 20 cents per card.

Members are reminded that the Annual Prize-giving will take place on Tuesday, 21st March. Mrs.
Hallifax has kindly promised to pre-scent the prizes. It was therefore decided that these clubs be first approached, and then another meeting
be convened.

LOCAL SWIMMING.

An informal meeting of the International Swimming Association was held yesterday at Lane, Crawford's restaurant for the purpose of discussing the proposed constitution of the Association.

One of the representatives present voiced the opinion that unless they were assured of big clubs like the V.R.C. and the Chinese Athletic Association joining, it was useless proceeding further. It was therefore decided that these clubs be first ap-
proached, and then another meeting
be convened.

HAPPY ADVERTISING. (2)

We have considerable pleasure in announcing the opening of our new premises in St. George's Building, Chater Road, Hong Kong, on Monday, the 6th inst. These new premises provide us with ample facilities for the displaying of those lines in gentlemen's outfitting which will inevitably appeal to the most discriminating masculine taste.

We, ourselves feel that we are offering an entirely different service,—different because our buying is so absolutely right, and because our prices are Homeside prices.

Our department for neckwear is worth mention, for this department holds a stock of seven thousand ties from the best of British makers of gentlemen's fine neckwear. These ties are priced at $1.75, $2.75 and $3.75, including Macclesfield handwoven squares.

Together with these we would mention our "Zambreno" weatherproofs priced from $12, and our stocks of grey flannel trousers, these latter are cut by London's most highly paid cutters,—experienced men who insist upon putting the best of their skilled craft into these productions, and we retail these from $11.50.

Our footwear department is especially interesting for its display of Scotch grain English made golf shoes at $15.50,—a golf shoe which is unconditionally guaranteed.

"Wolsey" knitwear is prominent in our stocks of knitwear goods, and here we are able to show you entirely new departures in golfing jackets, pullovers and slippers; Wolsey hose too is strongly featured,—altogether a careful selection direct from "Wolsey's" Leicester factory, and bought particularly for Hong Kong.

The briefest of glances at our showwindows will convince you that you can,

CINEMA SCREENINGS

NOTES SUPPLIED BY THE THEATRES

William Powell, now appearing in "High Pressure" at the Queen's Theatre, made his first screen appearance as the villain in "Sherlock Holmes" with John Barrymore. From then on he remained in films with brief returns to the stage. Amongst his early screen successes were "When Knighthood Was in Flower," "The Bright Shawl" and "Romola." Since then he has steadily won favour in many films, in which he was either the suave man of the world or the lattered outcast. It was the advent of talking pictures which, by adding the magnetism of the voice to his other talents, made his rise to stardom swift and sure. "High Pressure" presents him in a breathtaking comedy characterisation as a blue sky stock salesman, and wildest promoter, who hits the high spots of the Big Town, and whether drunk or sober, is nonchalant and enthusiastically on the lookout for new adventures. Quite different from earlier portrayals, the Gar Evans of Mr. Powell is an actionful portrait, the sort that we all like. Those who support William Powell in "High Pressure" are Evelyn Brent, George Sidney, John Wray, Guy Kibbee, Evalyn Knapp, Polly Walters and Ben Alexander. The breath-taking travesty on modern buckteering methods was directed by Mervyn Le Roy.

"Chandu The Magician"

Edmund Lowe, in the title role of "Chandu The Magician", radio's favourite entertainment, appears in the Fox Film version of the famous mystery drama at the King's Theatre. In addition to Lowe as Chandu, the large cast also includes Bela Lugosi as Roder; Irene Ware as Princess Nadi; Herbert Mundin as the comical cockney, Miggles; Weldon Kuybass as the cunning Abdullah; June Vasek as Betty Lou; and Henry B. Walthall as Regent, the inventor. Two superb actors, with many splendid achievements to their credit, Lowe and Lugosi are said to create a pair of real-life characterizations entirely in keeping with the radio serial upon which the stirring drama is based. Lowe easily tops his former role of magician in "The Spider", while Lugosi, with his slinking shadows and staring eyes, is more sinister than in "Dracula".

"Sherlock Holmes"

"Sherlock Holmes", the new Fox picture, based on one of Conan Doyle's most thrilling tales, comes to the King's Theatre on Sunday. Clive Brook, who plays the great detective, finds himself, in conjunction with Scotland Yard, pitted against the arch criminal, Moriarty, and a band of gangsters recruited from both sides of the Atlantic. How Moriarty sets his traps, which are quickly sprung by Holmes, and how the detective exterminates the gang and sends Moriarty to the death cell, form the basis of what is said to be one of the most thrilling and exciting screen dramas ever produced. Miriam Jordan, English stage beauty, who made her film debut in "Six Hours To Live", opposite Warner Baxter and John Boles, enacts the leading feminine part, sharing the romantic interest with Brook. Ernest Torrence, outstanding in menace parts, portrays the role of Moriarty. Reginald Owen, distinguished English actor, "The Blue Danube" is a musical and well known on both the stage and screen, appears as Dr. Watson, devoted friend and ally of Holmes. The film was directed by William K. Howard, who directed "Scotland Yard", "The Trial of Vivienne Ware", "Transatlantic" and "The First Year" for Fox Films.

MATILDA HOSPITAL

OPENING OF UP-TO-DATE SURGICAL BLOCK

An important advance in the quiet and unostentatious work being accomplished at the Matilda Hospital, on The Peak, has been gained with the opening yesterday of the new structural extension between the main building and the Superintendent's house. Constructed of modern materials, the new wing on its one upper floor accommodates wholly the surgical department, and fulfils what has been an urgent need.

A special Anniversary Report in connexion with the 26th. year of the existence of the hospital has been issued to coincide with the opening of the extension. It sets out the architectural difficulties which had to be dealt with when the decision to extend was reached. Where to build without interfering with any of the present buildings was a problem, but finally ingenuity prevailed, and the servants' quarters of the Doctor's house were remodelled and over them has been built the new operating theatre suite. The block thus brought into existence is a complete unit, conveniently arranged and joined to the main hospital by an extension of the central corridor. It comprises a large operating theatre with large windows, with steel frames, and overhead lights to the north and to the north-west.

Up-to-Date Equipment.

Communicating with the theatre on the south side is the sterilizing room, and communicating with the sterilizing room is the instrument room. Behind that again is an anaesthetic room, with a good sized storeroom adjoining for the keeping of all stocks of necessary surgical supplies. On the opposite side of the building there is a separate room for the surgeons to wash up before operations, and also a surgeon's room with dressing room and shower bath attached.

All the rooms open into a general hall and corridor, and radiators have been installed for heating. Hot and cold water is carried by pipes as desired, even the towel rails being heated.

The floors and walls are finished in marble terrazzo of a restful buff colour with green dado and green border lines. The whole building, including the roof, is of reinforced concrete, finished out-screen, appears as Dr. Watson, devoted friend and ally of Holmes. The film was directed by William K. Howard, who directed "Scotland Yard", "The Trial of Vivienne Ware", "Transatlantic" and "The First Year" for Fox Films.

"The Blue Danube"

The scenic beauties of "The Blue Danube" are a real delight. As befits a story of gipsy love, much of the action takes place in woodland scenes, some at dusk when the skillful lighting effects add to the ethereal beauty of the localities. It is here, too, that the haunting melodies played by Alfred Rode's Tzigane band are so wonderfully effective. "The Blue Danube" is a musical and dramatic production of rare charm.

side with Shanghai granite concrete. The window frames are all steel glazed with large plate glass sheets. The sanitary fittings together with bolts, locks, hinges, etc., are chromium plated, and an excellent system of electric lighting with heat and power supply has also been installed.

Below the main building,—on either side, are two covered-in loggias for the use of patients, with servants' quarters, bathrooms and kitchens. The building has been kept in conformity as far as possible with the rest of the hospital except for the outside finish, and it is hoped at some future time that the other hospital buildings may be finished with granite concrete to present a uniform appearance, as well as to preserve the older buildings.

The Operating Table.

The sterilizing is done in a separate room so that one is not troubled with the steam and heat from that source. Most of the equipment of the theatre including the operating table is stainless steel or chromium plated steel. The operating table itself, claimed to be at least as modern and up-to-date as any other in the Colony, has cost £250. A system of gadgets has made it adjustable to every angle. The overhead lights, by a system of reflections, cast no shadow.

The architects are Messrs. Palmer and Turner and Michael Lamb and Co. the Contractors. Messrs. Dodwell and Co., have been responsible for the central heating, hot and cold water supply and all sanitary work. Messrs. A. Vannini and Co., have done the marble Terrazzo very effectively. The General Electric Co. have undertaken the electric wiring and fittings and the windows and glass are supplied by Crittal and Co., England, through their agents Messrs. Dodwell and Co., Hong Kong.

Dr. J. H. Montgomery is the Medical Superintendent in charge.

History of Hospital.

The special Anniversary Report issued in the form of a brochure with pictures of the Hospital and of the new block, gives the history of the Hospital since its opening on January 27, 1907, by Mr. E. Hamilton Sharp, a brother of Mr. Granville Sharp, whose munificence had made the scheme possible.

Mr. V. M. Grayburn is the present Senior Trustee of the Institution, succeeding the late Sir Paul Chater. In addition to the Medical Superintendent, Dr. Montgomery, eight nurses are now maintained on the staff. During the quarter-century of the hospital's existence, a total number of 5,304 cases have been admitted as in-patients, of these 2,098 being male, patients and 3,106 female. The maternity department has dealt with 476 cases; and major operations performed total 702.

YORKSHIREMEN MEET

a new Yorkshire bowler commenced operations—Makepeace and Hallows (Lancashire's then far famed opening batsmen—regular heart-breakers for dislodgment!) being at the wickets.

This new Yorkshire bowler was shaping well, sending down good length balls and varying his pace, so that, as befitted a new hand, he was treated with due respect. The Yorkshire spectator, greatly pleased, thereupon remarked to his Lancashire friend "he frame's well does 'lad." Suddenly the bowler gave vent to a stentorian shout "How's that?"—which appeal for "l.b.w." was promptly answered in the negative by the umpire—whereupon the Lancastrian (replying to the Yorkshireman's previous remark) said "Aye and e's been well brou't oop an all!"

As you all know—those who don't, will shortly—Yorkshire possesses its own "National Anthem"—"On Ilkka Moor baht 'at." Such is its fame that it has, I understand, been translated into various foreign languages, so that its beauty and the salubrity of Ilkka Moor may be appreciated by all!

The characteristics of the inhabitants of Yorkshire are so thoroughly appreciated abroad that when a certain Foreign Minister was asked "When you next come to the Hague Conference where would you like the British delegates to come from?" he called for a map, and on its production, enquired "Where is Yorkshire?" On being shown, he pointed his finger at Lands End!

The Famous Sauce.

In addition to its "National Anthem," Yorkshire is noted for its "Sauce." Noa, I doant mean "lip," I'm referring to summat else 'at tickles yer tongue—you've all on yer noa doubt seen 'advertisment scores o'times—"When yer honour's at steak try Yorkshire Relish!"

Attention was recently called to its merits by questions asked in the House of Commons upon the complaint of a Member with reference to some sauce of foreign origin which was being served there—the questioner stating that better sauce could be obtained from Yorkshire.

Great local rivalries obtain in Yorkshire, as in other Counties—particularly is this the case with regard to Leeds and Bradford, which, as you know, are only ten miles apart. Both are "Cities"—Leeds having obtained that rank a few years ahead of Bradford, but this fact cuts no ice with those who favour Bradford, as its illustrious "by what" happened when a stranger who happened to be in Stanningley—situate about half way between the two cities, but a little nearer to Bradford than Leeds—and who, desiring to take the tram to Leeds, enquired from a Stanningley man whether a car marked "City" would take him there. The Stanningleyite took his pipe from his mouth, paused a moment, and slowly answered "Nah I'll just try to explain things, seeing as this seems to be a stranger to these parts. (Rahnd abaht ere there's trams and buses for all sorts of places like. There's Leeds, Clockheaton, Dewsbury, Uddersfield, Alifax and so on, but in Yorkshire, if ever this sees a tram just marked "City"—that's Bradford!"

Before I conclude, I would like to refer to the fact that as its new Vice-President, our Society has gotten a gentleman who hails from Batley. You've all, no doubt, heard of Batley—it's a suburb of Morley! the native town of the late Lord Oxford and Asquith, but that fact does not constitute Batley's only claim to fame, for as far back as the year 1885 their rugby team (known as "The Gallant Youths") won the Old Yorkshire Challenge Cup by beating Yorkshire Challenge

Final round by 8 touchdowns to 2. I remember it well. And in 1897 (the first year of the then Northern Union Challenge Cup Competition) they beat St. Helens (Lancashire) and won the Cup by a dropped goal and two tries to one try. I was present at the match.

I must add that I think the Society is to be congratulated on obtaining Mr. Brearley as its Vice-President. He's the Manager of the Chartered Bank, and if we find we need any money I'm sure he'll let us have all we want at a very low rate of interest on the Secretary's "Note of Hand!" because I Chartered Bank's gotten so much money, they doant know wot to dew w'it!—which remarks, I think, form a fitting prelude to the Toast:—"Prosperity to the Society of Yorkshiremen in Hongkong," which I now beg to propose.

The toast was duly honoured, with the usual enthusiasm.

Cabaret Programme.

Dancing, interspersed with items by Mrs. Joan Tetley and Messrs. J. Scott Harston, A. R. Brown, J. H. Shaw, and W. Stoker, was indulged in during dinner and until 1 a.m., the music being provided by the Revellers Dance Band.

The cabaret programme concluded with "Ilkka Moor Baht 'At," sung by Messrs. A. R. Brown, J. H. Shaw and W. Stoker, the guests joining heartily in the refrain.

Considerable ingenuity was displayed by the compiler of the printed programme, the menu portion being set off with typical vernacular humour.

CONTRACT BRIDGE

By W. E. McKenney

How to handle the situation when an opponent opens with a pre-emptive bid and you hold an exceptionally strong hand is always a problem.

Mrs. Edmund Neil and her partner, Mr. Porter Walley, met the situation with a very fine bid—a bid that is a fine weapon when properly used. However you must be very careful not to abuse the bid.

The Bidding

Both sides were vulnerable and South, the dealer, who held eight spades, started the contracting with a bid of four spades.

This is a pre-emptive bid and does not invite a response from partner—on the contrary, it is a definite attempt to shut out not only the opponents, but your partner as well.

Personally, I seldom use the pre-emptive bid as I hesitate to make any bid that will definitely shut out my partner. However, the bid of four spades was made and that is the situation which confronted Mrs. Neil, who sat in the East, when it was her turn to bid.

If she doubled four spades, her partner would naturally take it to mean a business double, therefore a double was out of the question.

Mrs. Neil well realized that South had made the bid of four spades because he held one extremely weak suit and was endeavouring to keep his opponent from bidding that suit.

Generally a pre-emptive bid in one major is made to shut out the other major, therefore Mrs. Neil felt that perhaps she and her partner had a heart bid. However Mrs. Neil could not be expected to bid five hearts with only a three-card heart suit over a four-spade bid.

She held two strong minor suits. A natural overall would be to bid five diamonds—but remember, with her hand she could support hearts, or play the hand at clubs or diamonds. Mrs. Neil now made use of a very fine bid—she overcalled with four no trump.

Supposing that you held the West cards and this declaration came to you—would you not reason it out in the following manner?

Certainly partner cannot play a hand at four no trump when the South player has stated that all his strength lies in one suit—and that suit is extremely long. Isn't it natural to assume that she is asking you to name your best suit?

Her words, she was afraid to double, fearing that instead of an informative double you would interpret it as a business double. This over calling of a pre-emptive bid with no trump is a natural bidding convention that was introduced last year and is now generally used in all systems.

Mr. M. Porter Walley, sitting in the West, after his partner overcalled with four no trump, bid five diamonds. North passed.

Mrs. Neil now knew that her partner held at least four diamonds. She holds six, and even though he holds only four diamonds to the eight spot it would be necessary to find three diamonds to the queen in the South hand in order for her to lose a diamond trick.

It looked as though the only trick that Mrs. Neil had to lose was a heart. If her partner holds three clubs, the fourth club can be ruffed in dummy, while if her partner holds four clubs it is only natural to expect the club suit to break. Therefore, Mrs. Neil now bid six diamonds.

The hand is a spread, as only one heart trick must be lost.

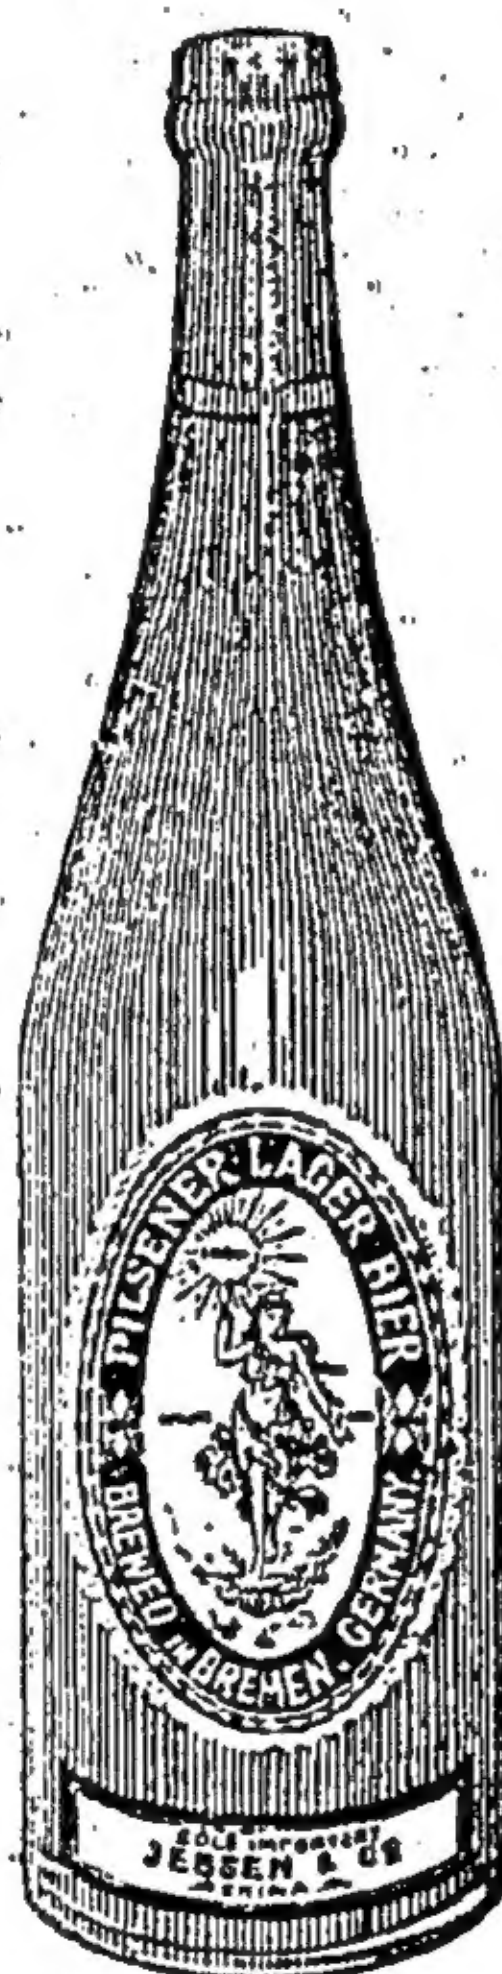

After the pre-emptive bid of four spades by South it is indeed rather difficult for East and West to get into a six diamond contract with any other bid than the overcall of four no trump. However, while this overall of no trump worked very well, be sure that you hold the proper type of hand before making that declaration.

PRISONER TAKES OWN LIFE

SUICIDE IN POLICE CELL

With a grave charge pending against him, and with the possibility of an even more serious indictment being substituted, a Chinese prisoner who was arrested after a murderous attack on a fellow-tenant at 130, Bonham Strand, defeated the ends of justice during the night when he committed suicide in Victoria Gaol.

The prisoner, Fong Kam-ho, was found early this morning by a warder suspended by his trousers from the rails of his cell in the remand prison, to which he had been committed yesterday following his appearance before Mr. Wynne-Jones at the Central Police Court on a charge of causing grievous bodily harm to Lai-Sai-ko.

The two men were involved in a quarrel over some work on Monday morning, when the alleged assailant produced a razor and inflicted a severe injury to his victim's throat.

When the assailant was brought before the Magistrate it was intimated that the victim was still in a serious condition and the probability of dying depositions having to be taken was mentioned.

TRADE RECOVERY

RESTRICTIONS ON EXCHANGE

London, Mar. 3.

The urgency of effecting modifications in exchange restrictions which are one of the main handicaps to trade recovery, was again emphasised in a speech by Mr. Stanley Baldwin at a luncheon during his visit to-day to the Birmingham Section of the British Industries Fair.

Mr. Baldwin is the ministerial head of the Department of Scientific and Industrial Research and during his visit to the London Section of the Fair yesterday and at Birmingham to-day he displayed special interest in the exhibits of goods in the production of which scientific research by the department had been of service.—British Wireless.

ARGENTINE AND BRITAIN

TRADE DISCUSSIONS PROGRESS

London, Mar. 3.

Trade negotiations which are proceeding between representatives of the United Kingdom and Argentina are conducted by three sub-committees dealing respectively with the export of goods from Argentina to the United Kingdom, export from the United Kingdom to Argentina, and exchange restrictions.

The matters under discussion by the sub-committee on exchange include possible steps that can be taken for freeing part at least of the frozen peso credits in Argentina, with a view to assisting the recovery of the normal flow of trade between the two countries.

While negotiations are to be expected for some time, in view of the complex questions involved, progress is being made, and meetings of the three sub-committees will be continued next week.—British Wireless.

and Co.) appeared for the defendants, and Yung Yee-chung, sales manager, stated that the goods were delivered to his firm and sent to Macao. They were returned from Macao as not fit for use and 7,197 were returned to the plaintiffs on July 18th.

The plaintiffs had denied receipt.
